Talkwalker and HubSpot define the social media trends to watch in 2021

- Talkwalker and HubSpot gathered 70+ global experts, to identify the trends brands should engage for success next year.
- Backed with analytical insights and consumer data to rank the trends, helping marketing and PR pros focus on their 2021 priorities.
- Plus, real-life examples and actionable insights, so brands can engage the trends immediately.

New York, 10/20/2020. Talkwalker, the leading social listening and analytics company, and HubSpot, a leading growth platform, has published their latest Social Media Trends Report in 6 languages, tailored for markets in the US, Europe, Asia, and across the globe. The current economic climate is a challenge, but also opens up new opportunities. This report helps marketers and top global brands steer their strategy in the right direction for 2021, by leveraging these consumer insights and trends.

“This is the 6th consecutive year Talkwalker has unveiled the insights every marketing professional should know to stay on top next year,” said Elena Melnikova, Talkwalker CMO. “And each year, we’ve strengthened our position as a thought leader in consumer insights. Bringing together analysis from millions of social data points, and industry experts, to pinpoint the trends that will matter most. Our partnership with HubSpot helps us create greater impact, sharing these valuable insights with even more marketing and PR professionals.”

This year, Talkwalker included survey data for the first time after gathering exclusive input from their database of 2,000+ global brands & agency clients. Using conversational intelligence, this added perspective helps marketers hear from peers to identify the trends that frontline industry professionals are focused on.

It will be followed by the first ever Social Media Trends 2021 Expert Series — a virtual conference digging deeper into the trends, headlined by experts and global brands.
“The events of 2020 have created widespread uncertainty for companies in almost every industry. Knowing the trends most likely to define the coming year is one of the best ways marketing leaders can combat the ongoing unpredictability and set their teams up for success in 2021,” said Meghan Keaney Anderson, VP of marketing at HubSpot. “We hope that marketers find the deep insights available in the Social Media Trends Report helpful as they map out their strategies for the year ahead.”
