Talkwalker & Trustpilot team up to define the State of Conversation for 2021

- Talkwalker and Trustpilot surveyed over 1000 marketing, PR and consumer insights professionals on the importance of consumer and customer conversations for data-driven brands.
- Backed with insights from 50+ experts from the world's biggest brands and agencies.
- And key takeaways for enterprise brands looking to activate the voice of the customer and drive revenue.

New York, March 2nd, 2021 - 82% of surveyed industry professionals believe that the pandemic has changed their understanding of the consumer. Talkwalker, the leading enterprise listening company, and Trustpilot, a leading review platform, teamed up to gather data from 1000+ professionals based in Europe, USA, Africa, Asia-Pacific, Latin America, and the Middle East and released new research about the growing importance of customer-centricity and conversational intelligence for enterprise brands in the midst of coronavirus.

Talkwalker and Trustpilot’s State of Conversation 2021 report reveals how different regions of the world have experienced changes in consumer conversations due to the pandemic, as well as regional perception when it comes to brand intelligence and data maturity.

Here is a brief overview of some key takeaways from the report.

- Brands need to humanize customer engagement and optimize customer experiences

  While COVID-19 has boosted digital interactions, consumers have been looking for more human contact & support in their brand experiences

- Technology & digital transformation will be a must to adapt to the new normal

  There is much to be done in terms of analytics training & education, with less than 44% of respondents seeing their brand as extremely data-driven. Yet experts identify technology as a key in 2021 to make sense of sentiment around your brand, your competitors or your industry at scale.

- Speed to insights becomes critical to understand changing consumer demands

  With over 50% of respondents confirming the existence of data silos within their organizations, it is time for leaders to break down information barriers, and let customer and consumer intelligence flow from all channels.
“Today’s consumers expect brands to meet them where they are, with empathy, and a shared set of values,” said Cara Buscaglia, Chief Innovation Officer at Talkwalker. “Conversational Intelligence is the key to unlocking meaningful customer relationships by understanding what customers are saying, where they are saying it and why.”

“Listening to and understanding customers is key to building a trusted brand,” says Peter Simpson, Head of Enterprise and Global Partnerships at Trustpilot. “This principle is core to the services of both Trustpilot and Talkwalker, making us natural partners for this report. The findings published here will help businesses better learn what consumers expect of them, and how they can position themselves to deliver.”
